SUMMARY

This course enables participants to become certified risk management professionals (Foundations level). The training and exam are based on the ISO 31000 risk management standard which can be used by organizations of any size, any industry, and any sector.

In this intensive three-day course, participants develop competence in the foundations of the ISO 31000 risk management standard. Based on in-depth teaching, practical exercises and quiz questions that test their aptitude, participants acquire the necessary knowledge and skills to pass the stringent exam. They do so by becoming familiar with the vocabulary, principles, framework and the risk management process proposed in the ISO 31000 standard.

During the course, we will present the ISO 31000 Risk Management Principles and Guidelines and its two companions, the ISO Guide 73:2009, and the IEC/ISO 31010:2009 Risk Assessment Techniques.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

ABOUT THE TRAINER

Peter Blokland is a former Belgian Air Force pilot, Staff Officer and aircraft accident investigator. He occupied flying duties on F-16 as a fighter pilot and also Alpha Jet and SF260M as a flying training instructor. Additionally, he served as a Squadron Commanding Officer (CO). As a staff officer, he took up duties in Training Command and the Aviation Safety Directory. He finished his career at NATO's Allied Command Operations at SHAPE (BE) – where he was involved in nuclear surety and command & control. He always took pleasure in improving situations and performance by dedicated action, while sharing and passing on his knowledge and expertise.

In 2008 he started a second career as an organizational and business coach, helping organizations, companies and teams to improve and excel. When issued in 2009, he immediately embraced ISO 31000 as a way to achieve this goal. Hence, Peter was also a speaker at the first international conference on ISO 31000 in Paris (2012) and Dubai (2016). As an author, together with Prof. Genserik Reniers (TUDelft, KUL & UA), he bundled his experience and ideas on leadership and management in a book titled "Total Respect Management" (Lannoo Campus, 2013) and he just finished his latest book "Safety and Performance" (NOVA, 2017). Since September 2014, Peter is also employed at TUDelft, working as a PhD researcher for the Safety Sciences section of the Technology Policy and Management faculty.
